Assessments & Evaluations / Transition to College

Assessments & Evaluation
Description: Assessments determine and describe what the impairment is and often detail what accommodations as well as resources will best assist a student through their college enrollment. Assessments can be critical documents when helping a student navigate through the college experience.

Educational Therapy / Learning to Learn Support
Description: Educational Therapy offers children and adults with learning disabilities and other learning challenges a wide range of intensive, individualized interventions designed to remediate learning problems. Educational therapy demystifies learning problems and stimulates clients’ awareness of their strengths so they can use those strengths to best advantage to overcome or compensate for areas of weakness.

An educational therapist has extensive training in learning disabilities and other forms of learning difficulties, with additional specific training in the psychology of learning disorders, assessment, and intervention strategies that address the social and emotional aspects that impact learning. Training also includes experience with intervention strategies specific to learning differences and a period of supervised practice.
